GOOD COPS

A discussion about "preventive policing" with author David A. Harris

Tuesday, April 5th
5:30 pm until 7:00 pm

Congress Lounge
Roosevelt University
430 S. Michigan

David Harris spent the last five years traveling to police forces in big cities and small towns all over the country, collecting case studies of preventive law enforcement and exploring why these tactics work. In GOOD COPS (New Press) Harris introduces "preventive policing," a new approach to law enforcement that builds bridges between police officers and the citizens they protect. The success stories in GOOD COPS show that crime can be reduced without infringing on civil rights, proving that we do not need to trade our rights for safety - even in the age of terrorism.

David A. Harris is Balk Professor of Law and Values at the University of Toledo. He is the author of Profiles in Injustice and has appeared on "The Today Show," "Dateline," "The News Hour with Jim Lehrer," NPR's "Morning Edition" and "All Things Considered." He has been interviewed and published in The New York Times, Washington Post, Wall Street Journal, Los Angeles Times, Time, and U.S. News and World Report.
