

In the summer of 1964, forty-one Mississippi Freedom Schools played a central role in a social movement that broke the back of segregation in the South. This history can provide important insights today for those who wish to create alternatives to a public school system that has never served the needs of urban poor and working class students.

Dr. Kathy Emery

Presents A Public Lecture:

“Education and Social Protest: What Mississippi Can Teach Us Today”

Thursday, June 15, 2006

6:00-8:30 p.m.

Roosevelt University

430 South Michigan Avenue

Congress Lounge (Second Floor)

RSVP-Call (312)427-4460 ext. 242 or E-mail csfs\_youth@yahoo.com

Co-sponsored by the Chicago Freedom School Project, Mansfield Institute for Social Justice, and Fulfilling the Dream: 40th Anniversary Commemoration of the Chicago Freedom Movement.