FOR PUBLIC POLICY

Chavez. Learn to think.

Cesar Chavez Public Charter Schools for Public Policy is a network of college preparatory middle and high schools (grades 6-12) located in Washington, DC. Our innovative public policy program is thematically weaved into every classroom, across all content areas. This focus promotes community activism and gives our scholars the knowledge and courage to change the world.

Adult Learning Community

Chavez's Adult Learning Community (ChALC) is our formal system of learning opportunities. It's about teachers collaborating with peers to challenge our thinking, developing our pedagogy, sharing best practices, and learning from each other. Our professional development programs are research-based and data driven. Regularly, sessions are led by those considered the nation's thought leaders in urban education.

Smart People Doing Important Work

Chavez Teachers are committed to excellence – to learning and growing. We know schools are accountable for student achievement and strive to create the best of times in the transformation of education. We are humbled by the incredible opportunity to overcome the achievement gap between the wealthy and traditionally underserved and prepare our kids to succeed in competitive colleges.

We are Chavez Educators!

- We are experienced.
- We engage students in cognitively complex tasks that require them to generate and test hypotheses.
- We help students deepen their knowledge by examining their reasoning.
- We are committed to our scholars and this learning community.
- We are phenomenal!
