Project Title: Study of Motor Learning Development

Principal Investigator:

Purpose of Research: The purpose of this research project is to map the rate of motor skill learning across age spans and compare this developmental trajectory across different clinical populations.

Description of Participation: If you choose to participate in this project, you will be asked to engage in mental tasks on a computer and using materials such as pictures. For many of these tasks, you will be asked to respond as quickly as possible. The entire experiment will take approximately 60 minutes.

Risks and Benefits: This study poses minimal risk to you as a participant. Because the study requires you to put forth mental effort, there is a possibility that you may experience fatigue or boredom. If this should occur, you may request a break. There is no direct benefit to you, but your participation in the study will help us gain insight into sequential learning and motor development in clinical populations such as autism and schizophrenia.

Confidentiality: Your participation in this study is completely voluntary. You may withdraw from the experiment at any time without penalty. Your responses will be kept confidential, and no identifying information will be linked to your responses. Only a numeric code will be associated with your responses. The master list linking numeric code to participant name will be stored in a locked drawer in a locked room.
