TEACHING EXPERIENCE

Roosevelt University College of Pharmacy

Current Courses

Winter 2017 – 2018

Course Coordinator

PHAR 566: Differential Diagnostics

Professional Year 3

This elective course will give pharmacy students better insight into medical decision making, diagnostic testing, and developing differential diagnoses for common hospital and clinic presentations. The course has been designed (and discussions will be led) by an Internal Medicine physician who specializes in Gastroenterology. Topics to include: work-up of chest pain, shortness of breath, abdominal pain, nausea/vomiting, rectal bleeding, hematemesis, pancreatitis, dysphagia, fever, syncope, and elevated liver enzymes. You will have an opportunity to practice critical thinking and diagnostic decision making in an interactive format. We will meet every other week (with key clinical cases being assigned as homework during the off weeks). This fun course will give you the confidence to feel comfortable in the hospital and working with physicians

Spring 2017

Course Coordinator

PHAR 757: Principles of Palliative Care

Professional Year 3

This elective provides students with an understanding of the pharmacist's role in pain control, palliative, and end-of-life care. Course objectives include:

- Describe the pharmacist's role and scope of practice as part of an interdisciplinary pain management/palliative/hospice care team.
- Understand the healthcare disciplines involved in patient care including but not limited to: art therapy, music therapy, social work, bereavement, spiritual care, massage therapy, and nursing.
- Explain the pathophysiology of pain and the pharmacology of drugs used to treat pain.
- Explain the pathophysiology of common end-of-life symptoms and describe appropriate pharmacologic and non-pharmacologic therapies for treatment.
- Understand the important pharmacokinetics, pharmacodynamics, and pharmacotherapeutics of drugs used to treat end-of-life symptoms.

CURRENT RESEARCH

- 2016 - present Impact of a Palliative Care Elective on Pharmacy Students' Perception and Clinical Reasoning
Currently collecting data, nationwide and interdisciplinary collaboration of faculty delivering an elective focused on pain, palliative care, and hospice topics.
Manuscript in progress.
- 2016 - present Survey of Nurse Knowledge of Drug Cost in Hospice
Currently analyzing data, manuscript in progress.
- 2016 Pharmacist Educational Interventions in Hospice
The impact of a pharmacist education on drug utilization and cost in a hospice organization. Manuscript published.
- 2015 Pharmacist Interventions in Home and Residence Hospice Patients
Data collected of pharmacist interventions in interdisciplinary team meetings, during rounds, and any questions posed by hospice clinical staff regarding pharmacotherapy.
- 2015 Using Standardized Patient Feedback in an Objective Structured Clinical Exam Course
Use of standardized patient feedback to improving the training materials, case formats and to gather impressions of student improvement throughout the course. Standardized patients were emailed at the conclusion of the course to participate in an anonymous survey to help improve preparation of standardized patients for each exam and their impressions of student improvement throughout the course.
- 2015 Using Student Feedback in an Objective Structured Clinical Exam (OSCE) Course
Students are surveyed at the end of the OSCE course and after the completion of Advanced Pharmacy Practice Experience rotations to assess their feelings regarding how well the OSCE course prepared them for real-life scenarios on rotation.
