Dependent students must report their parents' information on the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA). The Higher Education Acts permits the Financial Aid Services Office to review a student's dependency status. Since by federal law dependent students are required to include parent information and parent signature on the FAFSA for federal student aid eligibility, consideration for independent status can only be considered for unusual and/or extreme circumstances. Your name and RU student ID are required on all documents. Your financial aid eligibility cannot be determined until your dependency status has confirmed. You will be notified in writing in 5-7 days about the outcome of your appeal. You are responsible for the payment of institutional charges due to Roosevelt University by the published due dates.

The following circumstances are not considered for dependency override:

1. Parents refusing to contribute to the student's education.
2. Parents refusing to complete Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA).
3. Parents unwilling to provide information on the application or for verification.
4. Parents not claiming the students as a dependent for income tax purposes.
5. Student does not live with parents and/or student earns own income for student support.

The following circumstances may be considered for dependency override:

1. Abusive family environment (e.g., sexual, physical, or mental abuse or other forms of domestic violence).
2. Abandonment by parents.
3. Incarceration or institutionalization of both parents.
4. Parents lacking the physical or mental capacity to raise the child.
5. Parents' whereabouts unknown or parents cannot be located.
6. Parents hospitalized for an extended period.
7. Unsuitable household (e.g., child removed from the household and placed in foster care).
8. Married student's spouse dies or student gets divorced.

Student Questionnaire: For purposes of federal student aid a parent is your biological or stepparent who is married to your biological parent or a person that the state has determined to be your legal/adoptive parent. Your parent's citizenship status does not affect your eligibility for federal student aid. Your parent's citizenship status is not required on the FAFSA.
